

Versione Italiana

Morro d'Alba is a small town in the Marche region of Italy, located about 100 km from the coast. It is a typical hillside town, built on a hillside overlooking the valley. The town is surrounded by hills and is a typical example of a hillside town in the Marche region. The town is built on a hillside overlooking the valley. The town is surrounded by hills and is a typical example of a hillside town in the Marche region. The town is built on a hillside overlooking the valley. The town is surrounded by hills and is a typical example of a hillside town in the Marche region.